A black and white photograph of an archaeological site. The scene is dominated by large, light-colored, irregularly shaped rocks scattered across a dirt surface. In the center-right, a human skull is visible, showing some cracking. Below and to the left of the skull, several long, cylindrical objects, possibly bone shafts or wooden rods, are clustered together. A small white rectangular label with the number '203' is placed in the center of the image. Above the label, a black and white scale bar is visible. The overall appearance is that of an excavation site with various artifacts and skeletal remains.
